For Old Time Favorites

modern resinous glazes

Wm. Zinsser & Co., has been making confectionery glazes ever since such old-time favorites as jelly beans, butter creams and candy corn were new-fangled delights. And through the years Zinsser has developed new and improved resinous glazes that give these favorites maximum protection and sales appeal. Here is the broad line of Zinsser glazes to meet your requirements.

Regular glaze — full-bodied, opaque, creamy solution. Gives a clear film.

Refined glaze — wax-free, transparent, amber-colored solution. Gives a crystal clear film, more brilliant than Regular.

Orange glaze — color of conventional liquid orange shellac. Gives an unusual "toning" effect on dark chocolate pan goods. Available in 3-lb., 4-lb., and 5-lb. cuts with 28.8%, 34.9% and 39.9% dry solids respectively, or your special formulae.

Zinsser quality controlled glazes assure — smoothness of film . . . freedom from residual odor . . . consistent viscosity for uniform holdout . . . excellent color retention . . . purity . . . uniform wax dispersion.

Why not let our skill and experience, and modern research facilities work for you? For samples and information write—

Candy tonnage unequalled; Sales gain 4.7% in 1960

Dollar volume and tonnage of confectionery sales and distribution increased for the fifth consecutive year in 1960, according to latest U. S. Department of Commerce figures.

Based on manufacturers reports, the figures show an increase of 2.5% to put the industry volume at more than 3.0 billion pounds, an all-time high. This represents a 4.7% increase in dollar value, or $1.2 billion.

Among the largest poundage increases were: solid chocolate bulk goods, up 22%; moulded chocolate bars, up 14%; and package goods retailing for over $2.00 a lb., up 9%.

Chocolate confectionery averaged 14% increase, compared to 4% for the entire industry. This reflects increased use of cocoa bean products. The average price of cocoa beans in 1960 was 28.6¢ compared to 36.1¢ for the previous year.

U. S. per capita consumption, including net imports and total U. S. candy production, increased from 16.8 in 1959 to 16.9 pounds, last year. This is the highest since 1953 when it was 17.1 pounds.

The Hubinger candy man is a sweet kid

You wouldn't think it, but he even dreams candy. Years ago, when he first got the candy bug, he went as far as to try a straight candy diet, each meal consisting of nothing but candy. We forget how many days he held on. After the stomach pump session, however, the doctor ordered him back to things like meat, bread, vegetables (including rutabagas), milk, and stuff.

Since then, he's been making up for this deprivation of one of life's pleasures by working twice as hard for ways to make better candy for other candy lovers. He is happiest when he's occupied with your specific problems, such as what to do about improving taste, texture, shelf life, etc. And if you should run into production problems, take heart. He's smart.

He's an OK guy, naturally, and he doesn't play hard to get. One phone call, letter or telegram, and he's yours.

"Sweet-eens" Tour Candy Plant . . . Future Candymakers?

Young delegates attending the National Youthpower Congress in Chicago recently were surprised to learn that the 200 lb. slab of chocolate (foreground) produced more than 3,400 bite-size pieces of candy.

Under the sponsorship of the National Confectioners Association, the teenagers visited Marshall Field and Company's candy plant as part of their study of the operations of the nation's food industry from farm to table.

nologists included: a technical school for the confectionery industry, flavor research and food acceptance, the status of research on confectionery fats, and the challenge of science and technology in food production.

A production conference covered such subjects as: jellies and gums, some new vistas in hard candy, characteristics of caramels and fudges, confectionery coatings, nougats and marshmallows, and creams. This session was followed by a lively question and answer period.

Activities of the Candy, Chocolate and Confectionery Institute sparked one session at which Theodore R. Sills, whose public relations firm is fomenting public interest in the energy-building value of candy, told of the progress of the campaign to date.

Conferees were challenged by Arthur H. Motley, president and publisher of Parade magazine, and board chairman of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, to do as good a job of selling the nutritious value of candy as they have done in merchandising their products through food stores and in selling multiple units through good packaging.

Motley asked his audience, "Do your customers and prospects know that candy is good for them; that in addition to tasting good, it provides needed energy for a quick pickup; that it helps build a strong body?"

"How good a job have you done," Motley queried, "in making the American consumers look on your product as a source of health, energy and well being rather than with a guilt complex that every time they eat a sweet they are cheating?"

He cautioned that no industry can expect to prosper if it doesn't assume the responsibility for honestly and completely informing its customers.

Motley tied this thought to, "No country can expect to prosper unless its leadership is always active in keeping the citizens informed, as to their problems and solutions." And he called upon the audience to "take an active part in governmental affairs; to let legislators know what you think of upcoming legislation and how it will affect you and those who are involved in your business."

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman discussed

A group of 17 European candy manufacturers highlighted their tour of American candy plants with a visit to the 1961 Convention and Exposition of the National Confectioners Assoc. The visitors are candy and chocolate in-the economic squeeze of the U. S. Farmer at the NCA official luncheon.

Citing unions for identifying the sphere in which their efforts should be made, for their dedicated efforts, and for their single-mindedness in the pursuit of the objective, Robert T. Borth, General Electric Co., Washington, D. C., told the NCA conferees that business was losing its effectiveness because it lacked these qualities.

He had five suggestions for the candymakers as individual businessmen:

1. Keep writing and talking to your Congressman; express an opinion on pending legislation so he knows your feelings.
2. Give him your support when he needs it most.
3. Urge others to join you in voicing their opinions.
4. Try to inform the general public . . . not those who already agree with you; sell your point of view . . . continuously.
5. Challenge what you read, see and hear in the press, radio and television.

6. Get both feet wet in practical precinct politics. Insect infestation and mold of cocoa were discussed by John L. Harvey, deputy commissioner, Food and Drug Administration, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Also Harvey discussed use of colors in foods, referring to the recent color additive amendment to the Food Drug and Cosmetic Act, and to pending H. R. 3548 (the MacDonald Bill) amendment to Section 402(d).

"The FDA examined and evaluated by standardized methods some 6000 samples of cocoa beans from 32 producing countries," Harvey said, and concluded that a tolerance of 8% total insect infested and moldy beans, but not more than 3% of either, would be reasonable and proper. However, the revised tolerance has not yet been definitely established, he reported.

He then directed attention to the Color Additive Amendments to the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act which passed in Congress on July 12, last year. These amendments, Harvey said, provide for the listing of color additives, for use in foods, drugs and cosmetics if they are found safe for the intended use and under any restrictions, if such are necessary. tives," he described as "any dyes or pigments which color, and includes non coal-tar colors, many of which are used by the confectionery industry."

Harvey said that Congress did not intend to immediately outlaw any color that had been used unless it had been demonstrated to be harmful. Therefore, a 2½ year transitional, or provisional, period was provided in the Bill. For the confectionery industry this means that from "now until January 12, 1963, an ingredient used to color candy must have been subjected to sufficient pharmacological testing to prove that it is safe for its intended use. Methods," Harvey continued, "for determining the color content must have been developed, or restrictions would be meaningless."

The speaker said the FDA is not concerned with who takes the lead in obtaining the necessary clearances but, he cautioned, "it is important that each of you individually, or collectively, determine what steps are being taken to obtain the necessary clearances, so that at the deadline date a suitable supply of colors will be available for your use. Until the deadline, lack of harmfulness will allow continued use of a color; afterward, a positive showing of safety under proposed conditions of use will be necessary."

Flavor research, whether basic or applied, should be considered a working tool in product development, product analysis and product marketing, according to Robert L. Swaine, Senior Research Chemist, Food and Flavor Section, Life Sciences Division of Arthur D. Little, Inc.

Addressing the opening meeting of the technical session, Swaine said that if the flavor of the product is at an exceedingly low level of intensity, or inappropriate, or of inferior quality, the consumer will not repurchase the product . . . no matter how attractive the price or package, and no matter how convincing the advertising.

"Likewise, the flavor should be psychologically appropriate." The speaker compared natural and synthetic flavors, and discussed typical production processes, such as heating and freezing which affect the flavor of foods.

"Research plays an important role in these areas," the speaker continued. "We need to know how closely a synthetic flavor simulates a natural flavor . . . to what degree processing alters or destroys flavor and to determine how this happens . . . to evaluate the acceptability of blends of flavors . . . to evaluate the appropriateness of certain flavors for specific products."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Smessaert (left) were winners of an expense-free vacation trip to the Emerald Beach Hotel in Nassau. Handing them their "free ride" is Richard B. Kimbell, Kimbell Candy Co., chairman of the Get-Together, preliminary event of the NCA convention. Mrs. Smessaert, held the lucky ticket. In addition to a trip for two, the couple received an extra bonus of $200 from the NCA for having purchased convention tickets in advance.

Later at a Board of Directors meeting Smessaert, Walter Johnson Candy Co., was elected a vice president of the Association.

Swaine discussed the four basic tastes; the importance of odor, and texture . . . all components of flavor. He then touched on quantitative aspects of flavor. In this respect he said, "technologists can measure flavor quantitatively, whether it be the taste or odor of a single chemical or simple chemical complex, or the over-all flavor of a food product. This is done using the concept of 'threshold', and there are two thresholds for every test substance. The "detection threshold of a substance is the lowest concentration of that substance in a control medium which can be differentiated from the control medium itself. Then," he said, "there is the 'recognition threshold' which is the lowest concentration of a substance at which it can be properly identified."

Various laboratory testing procedures were pointed out as were consumer product testing methods. In the latter, he concluded that both pilot and full consumer product testing enables products to be screened out that will not be profitable. The time and investment that go into development and research are small compared with the loss that can come from trying to market an unsuccessful product.

Dr. Robert W. English, American Institute of Baking, Chicago, did not attempt to answer the rhetorical question, "Should the Confectionery Industry have a technical school?" Instead, he briefed the conferees on the educational program, research activities and member services provided by the baking industry's The American Institute of Baking.

He referred to the baking industry as "related" to the candy industry, thinking in terms of common historical backgrounds, related problems of sanitation, shelf-life, mechanization, automation, etc.

Sugar and cocoa experts who addressed the third general session of the 1961 National Confectioners Association were (left to right) Frank Kemp, president Great Western Sugar Co.; Lem T. Jones, immediate past president, Russel Stover Candies, Inc., and NCA delegate to the recent international FAO study group meeting on cocoa in Accra, Ghana; John M. Whittaker, president New England Confectionery Co., and a vice president of NCA; and Irving Hoff, executive director, U. S. Cane Sugar Refiners Assoc.

Dr. English asked two pertinent questions: Does the confectionery industry have enough employees with enough technical skills and knowledge needed for its healthy operation? Does it have a plan of manpower development which shows reasonable probability of providing the technical know-how that will be needed for successful competition in 1970, 1980?

He said if the answer is "yes" to these questions, he doubted the confectionery industry needed a technical school.

He told of the A.I.B.'s technical library, its active program of fundamental research, its service laboratory and experimental and pilot bakery, its consumer service department for the preparation and distribution of nutrition educational materials and product information on bakery foods. He touched on its program of bakery sanitation with inspection services and recommendations for more than 700 bakeries and flour mills. Also he told of the educational courses on Baking Science and Technology, from which have been graduated 3000 students . . . all experienced bakers who wanted to increase their technical knowledge. He mentioned the various short courses which are provided for sales and laboratory personnel of allied companies to increase their technical information and knowledge of bakers' problems. The Institute also has an educational program for equipment maintenance and operation men; a sales management seminar for key men of bakeries engaged in sales; and a production management seminar.

Dr. English said that if the confectionery industry should develop a technical education program for member's employees, the program—to be practical for personnel development—should give full recognition to and provision for the study of human relations along with the technical information.

Speaking before the NCA conferees on the challenge of science and technology in food production, I. J. Hutchings, Institute of Food Technologists, called for more dollars to be spent profitably in basic research. He said, "We in the food industry have been far too complacent in the field of basic research."

"Research must come through a planned program," Hutchings asserted, adding that the industry is a 70 billion dollar business annually, yet in 1960 it spent less than 0.2% of the dollar for all research. Manufacturing industries averaged 2.43%, he said, and of the $110.8 million spent by the food industry for research, 95% of this was spent for applied research and only 5% for basic research. Real advancement will not come until more and more of the research dollar is spent in the basic research area, Hutchings warned. And added, "we must probe the secrets of nature if we expect to find the key that will unlock the future."

"Some areas," he cited, "in which to look include:

1. Improvement of crops through plant breeding.
2. New techniques in food processing that will give improved methods of preservation.
3. Better knowledge of sterilization and the effect of newer methods of enzymatic and oxidative changes.
4. Better control of disease, both plant and animal.
5. Better plant nutrition.
6. Improved sanitary techniques for production of hygienic foods."

Hutchings also cited several areas of investigation that are currently underway, and, as a bacteriologist, called upon the confectioners to police their own operations regarding bacterial control in production areas, especially. "Unless this is done voluntarily, means will be provided whereby the goal will be accomplished," he said, and cited the case of the Frozen Food Industry in Massachusetts.

He called for greater interest to be taken in the education of future scientists, "for basic research cannot go forward unless we have the individuals trained to participate in the program."

In addition, Hutchings emphasized the need for educating the public to an appreciation of the role that chemicals play in food production.

There is also need to supply information to the technically underdeveloped countries, Hutchings averred. "Our responsibility as a Nation is not one of feeding the world, but of providing technical information that will assist them in the solution of their own problems of food production and preservation," he said.

Profits took the spotlight at the Financial Management Breakfast, when Robert H. Kuhn and Paul E. Frank of Ernst & Ernst discussed setting selling prices and their relationship to costs, plus aids in controlling costs.

The last afternoon of the convention was given over to reports on the cocoa situation by Lem T. Jones, who has just resigned as president of Russell Stover Candies, Inc., Kansas City. Also the sugar situation was discussed: cane sugar by Irving Hoff, United States Cane Sugar Refiners Association; beet sugar by Frank Kemp, Great Western Sugar Company.

Speakers at the candy production forum were: (left to right) Dr. Roy F. Korfhage, technical director, Ambrosia Chocolate Co.; H. B. Cosler, General Products Division, Quartermaster Food and Container Institute for the Armed Forces, who was moderator of the forum; and Dr. A. B. Cramer, chief chemist, F & F Laboratories, Inc.

Retailer's Meet is Lively

PACKAGING CANDY FOR MAILING, good displays and tie-in promotions, plus chocolate is not the cause of candy failure were three topics discussed at the annual meeting of the Associated Retail Confectioners of North America in Chicago June 11-14.

Speaking at a panel discussion on shipping and packaging, Frank W. Green, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co., New York City, told the conferees to protect their candy against crushing, pilferage, dropping and temperature changes, which he stated, were only a few of the hazards to candy in transit. Green told the retailers that many times they were wasting money by using heavy corrugated wrappers when lighter weight could be used. He further advised the retailers, who do considerable mailing, to call in a packaging expert from supplying companies, and also recommended the use of some type of insulation if the candies to be shipped are affected by heat or cold.

What happens to candy in shipment was visually demonstrated with 30 packages mailed to the convention by candy retailers from all parts of the U. S.

According to one panelist Philip Lazzara, superintendent of Postal Services, Chicago, the most common mistake is failure to identify the package of candy as "Perishable". "Unless the package is clearly and unmistakably marked 'perishable,'" Lazzara said, "it will receive routine package handling with the possibility of damage to the contents."

Others on the shipping and packaging panel were: Joseph T. Orchard, Pecan Joe, Texarkana, Texas; and Otto Glaser, James Candy Co., Atlantic City, N. J.

Good displays, tie-in-promotions with local activities, and seasonal candies can keep the customers rolling into the store all year long, the conferees were told during a Candy Idea-Display Clinic.

Two dozen expert candy retailers from across the U. S. cited personal experiences: one uses the annual cotton festival in Memphis as a sales tie-in; another tied in with the baseball pennant-winning Pittsburgh Pirates; another showed how to capitalize on Father's Day. Many use cutouts, displays, special boxes or gimmicks to attract attention and bring customers into the store.

The group's President W. Ralph Hopkin Marquetand's, Inc., Philadelphia, displayed a new product called "Softies", coated marshmallows in various colors and packages which proved very successful in sparking sales during off seasons.

David T. Lamme, Jr., Austin, Texas, displayed a home-made sail boat, brightly painted and decorated, which he used to help promote sales of his salt water taffy. He said that his taffy sales help keep employees busy the year 'round and give his stores an added item between other promotions.

David T. Lamme Jr. of Lamme's Candies, Austin, Tex., tells the 41st annual convention of the Associated Retail Confectioners of North America how he promotes salt water taffy in Texas. Lamme's eye-catching display was one of more than a score presented at the Candy-Idea-Display Clinic at the convention in the Drake Hotel, Chicago.

Clinic Co-chairmen Jesse A. Anderson, Jr., Stuckey's, Eastman, Ga., and James W. Sotus, Sotus Candy Co., New Castle, Pa. discussed many displays, each of which pointed up sales-building ideas.

In the discussion on chocolate, comprised of a series of technical papers and a question and answer forum, the panel concurred that modern chocolate making processes very nearly have eliminated the chance that commercial chocolate, as received by the candymaker, will not respond as expected in the various situations encountered in candymaking.

All too often, they said, the candymaker or his employees have not followed the proper techniques, or they have used machines improperly.

It was further pointed out that people handling chocolate in the candyplant should be the highest paid, and they should be closely supervised to make sure production standards are being followed.

On the panel were: Donald G. Mitchell, Walter Baker Chocolate Co., Dorchester, Mass.; Rodney Welch, Wilbur Chocolate Co., Lititz, Pa.; James R. Meagher, Nestle Co., White Plains, N. Y.; Jay C. Musser and John P. Woodward, Klein Chocolate Co., Elizabethtown, Pa.; Robert Schuman, Blumenthal Bros. Chocolate Co., Philadelphia; Roy Korfhage, Ambrosia Chocolate Co., Milwaukee; and Bradshaw Mintener, Chocolate Manufacturers Association, Washington, D. C.

A roundup of the candy promotion being conducted by the Candy, Chocolate and Confectionery Institute was another highlight of the ARC Meet. Theodore R. Sills, public relations counselor handling the promotion, explained that the program is designed to increase sales and combat prejudice against candy by food and diet faddists. This will be done through a "positive projection of ideas which place candy in favorable situations in the home, offices, factories, and in autos," Sills said.

Also "new uses for candy in entertaining, for desserts, for overcoming fatigue, and for dieting are being promoted. Too, "Miss Candy" will promote use of candy via television and radio appearances in more than 50 cities throughout the country," Sills reported.

Easy Method for Calculating Dilution or Concentration by the Pearson Square

Problem:

You have 36% acetic acid on hand but formulas call for 28% acid. How much distilled water should be added to two pounds of the acid on hand to reduce it to 28%?

Solution: (Fig. 1)

Draw a rectangle and diagonals and insert figures as indicated. A and B are the percentages of acetic acid in the water, and the acid on hand. C is the percentage of acid desired. B minus C equals D. C minus A equals E. Then for every 28 parts of the 36% acid, 8 parts of distilled water must be added. Two pounds or 32 ounces divided by 28 multiplied by 8 equals 9-1/7 ozs. Hence, add 9 oz. water to 2 lbs. of the 36% acid to get 41 ozs. of 28% acid.

Problem:

You have 1000 lbs. of a light sugar syrup which tests 40% sugar (Refractometer or Brix). How much dry sugar must be added to this syrup to bring the sugar content up to 68%?

Solution: (Fig. 2)

Draw a rectangle and diagonals and insert figures as indicated. A and B are the percentages of sugar in the syrup and dry sugar. C is the percentage of sugar desired in the finished syrup. B minus C equals D and C minus A equals E. Then for every 32 parts of the 40% syrup, 28 parts of dry sugar must be added, or 1000 divided by 32 multiplied by 28 or 875 lbs. of dry sugar. The total amount of 68% syrup will be 1875 lbs.

Problem:

You have 16 ozs. of 60% alcohol and wish to prepare an 80% solution. How much 95% alcohol will be required?

Solution: (Fig. 3)

Draw a rectangle and diagonals and insert figures as indicated. A and B are percentages of alcohol. C is the percentage of alcohol desired in the finished product. B minus C equals D. C minus A equals E. Then for every 15 parts of the 60% alcohol, 20 parts of 95% alcohol must be added. Sixteen divided by 15 multiplied by 20 equals 21-1/3 ozs. of the 95% alcohol to be added. The total amount of 80% alcohol will be 37-1/3 ozs.

The New LEHMANN TRIPLE COCOA LIQUOR MILL

makes substantial savings in refining costs

This mill has many refinements, including a new cooling system that marks a distinct improvement over previous models. It discharges ground liquor at temperatures 40° to 50° cooler than before with consequent higher viscosity. This increases fineness of grind and production rate.

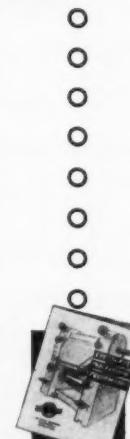

Noise and vibration are reduced appreciably. Adjustments are entirely automatic. Settings for repetitive operation are regulated by pressure gauges. Machine profiles have been streamlined effectively. Cleaning is simplified by the removal of all nonfunctional pockets and projections, an important point in view of the trend toward increasingly strict public health laws.

Lehmann Liquor Mills are of two types: Model 48DN for liquor reduction from cocoa nibs to finished cocoa liquor, and Model 48DL from preground cocoa liquor slurry to finished liquor. Both models comprise a triple set of grinding stages, mounted vertically in a rigid steel frame of welded construction, providing maximum grinding capacity in minimum floor space.

These machines represent a distinct advance in the production of a higher grade of cocoa liquor at substantially reduced cost.

Send for our new booklet "Chocolate Processing Equipment", describing this and other Lehmann machinery for chocolate refinement.

OIL ROAST the nuts for chocolate covered nut goods

*enhance flavor
and appearance
extend shelf life*

BURNS FRY-O-MATIC CONTINUOUS ROASTER and COOLER

Improve the quality of your chocolate-nut goods by preparing the nuts this new way. First, a light dry roast on a Burns Continuous Dry Roaster to permit easy blanching; then oil roasting in a Burns Continuous FRY-O-MATIC. Oil roasting keeps the nuts from drying out . . . helps the candy retain its fresh taste and appearance, for a longer shelf life.

FRY-O-MATIC is the one, sure way to gain this improved quality control. Continuous operation gives a more uniform product, gentler handling, highest sanitation. Automatic operation from feed through roasting, cooling and discharge, reduces labor requirements.

The user whose FRY-O-MATIC is shown above says: "We are fully satisfied. The various possibilities of combining depth, flow and temperature allow us to roast any nut variety to any required degree. The precisely working automatic temperature adjustment results in an even development of every nut. Oil filling and cleaning are extremely simple."

The FRY-O-MATIC can also be supplied for automatic roasting, salting, cooling and glazing of salted nuts. For details on all the profit potentials of this new advance in confectionery processing, call or write

features of the new LATINI
"Continuous-Motion"
Twist Wapper*

1 Automatic Feed Hopper

A LATINI first! Especially developed to eliminate doubles and broken pieces, with a feed mechanism that automatically controls the amount and flow of candy.

2 Continuous Feeding

A LATINI exclusive! Especially developed to eliminate chipping and dusting. Feed plate operates in a continuous motion which gently transfers the candy piece for wrapping without the conventional intermittent motion.

3 Multiple Twisters

NEW! Five sets of twisters insure slower twisting speeds of each twisting head. Due to the relatively slow speed of each twister, all types of paper can be used.

4 U.S. Engineered

Especially designed for U.S. production. All parts, such as gears, screws, bearings, etc., are easily obtainable locally. All machine parts made to U.S. standards, and are jigged for production.

5 Paper Saver

A paper-saving device is incorporated to stop the feed of paper in the event the candy is missing.

6 Simplified Maintenance

Designed for livability. Each operating unit is easily accessible for maintenance without the removal of other mechanisms. All moving parts and stations are at waist-high levels.

7 Speed

Wraps up to 350 pieces per minute, depending on the size and type of preformed candy being wrapped.

TRANSWRAP S-750 GIVES NECCO HIGH-SPEED AUTOMATIC PACKAGING

On their Canada Mint packaging operation, New England Confectionery Co. now automatically forms, fills and seals 9-oz. polyethylene bags on a Package Transwrap S-750. Sustained production rate for the 4½" x 8½" bags is 60 a minute.

NECCO gets high-speed operation and flexibility of bag sizes and materials with its Transwrap. The machine runs virtually unattended, and the net weight scale feed maintains extremely close accuracy. Their 6-oz. and 8-oz. mint packages are planned for this unit in the near future.

If you're interested in the benefits of high-speed automatic operation, call your Package representative. He will be glad to explain how the Transwrap S-750 can help you produce a smarter package, faster and at lower cost.

The Package Transwrap S-750 offers these cost-cutting features that mean speed, flexibility and efficiency to any packaging operation:

- Wide size range—bags 3" to 15" long, 2" to 8½" wide.
- Up to 75 bags a minute with a single tube; easy speed adjustment.
- Handles a wide variety of plastic and heat-sealable films.
- Rapid film and size change-overs.
- Smooth, straight pull on material, even at high speeds, by spring-counterbalanced, crank-operated drawbar.
- Improved paper feed operates faster, eliminates film distortion.
- Tight, positive impulse sealing of ends and longitudinal seam.

In addition to Canada Mints, NECCO plans to use the Transwrap to package other candy products in both polyethylene and cellophane bags.

WHAT PRICE

TLC

TLC...the priceless ingredient that makes chocolate...milk or dark...taste better, dip or enrobe better, and makes chocolate centers taste better.

Manhandling the cocoa bean may speed production but it also destroys flavor. That's why, at Cocoline, we handle cocoa beans with tender loving care. TLC assures all the chocolate goodness that makes loyal friends of your customers...makes your customers come back for more.

That's why we say, for goodness sake, use Cocoline Chocolate...milk or dark. May we prove it?

WHO SWIPED
MY COCONUT?

BAKER'S DID! And they're very choosy about the ones they take . . . only the best fully-matured nuts.

Baker's modern plant in San Pablo, P. I., opens a coconut carefully . . . shreds the meat under rigid quality control and cleanliness standards . . . samples each batch and tests it in the San Pablo laboratory for uniformity of cut, moisture, color, flavor and free fatty acid. Rushes it on clean, non-copra-carrying steamers to 48 U. S. warehouses that guarantee you fast delivery of fresh, appetizing coconut.

Ask your local Baker's food broker or supply house for Baker's Coconut. After all . . .

BAKER'S IS BETTER!

When it's orange they want, give them full orange flavor

Don't cut corners here! When less than one ounce of orange oil can glorify—or ruin—a hundred-pound batch of cream centers, why gamble?

Insist on the one and only orange oil that is always cold pressed and bulk-blended from California's best oranges. It's packed in tamper-proof containers and guaranteed uniform by the Sunkist Growers—Exchange Brand Orange Oil, U.S.P.

Gourmet?

No, But He Knows What He Likes! This stalwart minion of the law never tasted quail's tongues. But he's an authority on the more substantial "groceries". If he doesn't savor the flavor the first time, there'll be no second time. Felton Flavors supply the taste he likes. Like all Americans, he's adventurous in his tastes. The same old flavors weary him. He seeks new taste sensations. For 38 years, Felton has been giving old foods new taste and inspiring the creation of new foods. If you want to revitalize an existing product, or dream up a new one, send for the man from Felton—taste-makers of the nation. Felton Chemical Co., Inc., 599 Johnson Ave., Brooklyn 37, New York.

So, to forget that coating problems ever existed, remember to specify coatings made with Durkee's Paramount hard butters. And, if you need help with any coating problem, just give us a call. If we can't help over the phone, we'll send one of our Technical Research men to your plant!

use pecans for profit

Because: they're high oil content pecans—bright, full-meated and firm, with the delicate flavor of freshly shelled pecans.

Because: every pound of Fleischmann's is a pound of quality pecans, the pick of the pecan meats, rigidly graded to specification.

Because: they're backed with the kind of service which has earned Standard Brands a prestige reputation in the food field.

SORBO® Added means Sales Appeal, when you're making glazed buttercreams, marshmallows, fudge or buttermints, for example. SORBO (Atlas Sorbitol Solution) keeps your candies looking and feeling kitchen-fresh because it slows hardening and modifies sugar crystallization. Makes them taste better, too. Same reasons. For faster Shelf Activity, add SORBO. Write for typical recipes.

Confectionery Analysis and Composition

by Stroud Jordan and Kathryn E. Langwill

This volume, first published in 1946, is still the only published reference work on the subject of confectionery analysis. It concerns itself with applicable data that covers composition of basic raw materials as well as that of the finished confections in which they have been employed.

116 pp. - $6.00

Confectionery Problems

(Confectionery Studies, Number 1)

by Stroud Jordan

Stroud Jordan's reputation as an important candy technologist is based on his first book. Published in 1930 it is still, in many areas, the final word on technology in the industry. Jordan's sense of responsibility to record his discoveries and knowledge for the benefit of the industry caused him to produce more writings on the technical and scientific aspects of candymaking than any other person in the field. The recognition given him in the form of the establishment of the Stroud Jordan Medal by the American Association of Candy Technologists rests on this sense of responsibility.

347 pp. - $6.00

A Textbook on Candy Making

by Alfred E. Leighton

Here is a textbook where the reader can learn the basic fundamentals of candy making, the "how" and "why" of the various operations in non-technical terms. Particular attention is given to the function of raw materials, and why each is included in a formula.

175 pp. - $6.00

Choice Confections

by Walter Richmond

This book, now in its second printing, is written primarily for the manufacturing retailer. It contains 365 formulas given in two batch sizes, one for hand work and one for machine work. All of these formulas have been production tested and have proven to be of great help to manufacturing retailers in varying old items and developing new ones. The book also contains a glossary of candy terms and chemical terms, a complete chapter on chocolate coating methods and a chapter on ingredients and their uses. It is an important and useful book for all manufacturing retailers.

He is a consulting engineer with headquarters in New York City. 20 pp. - $2.00

Profits Through Cost Control

by Frank Buese and Eric Weissenburger

How to Salvage Scrap Candy

by Wesley H. Childs

This booklet is a complete revision of the author's work "Modern Methods of Candy Scrap Recovery" published in 1943. This booklet covers all types of candy, and gives many practical and economical ways of converting scrap candy into a useful form for re-use. 28 pp. - $2.00

by Stroud Jordan
(Confectionery Studies, Number 1)

This is the first of Jordan's books, on which his standing as the most important candy technologist is based. I have never heard it claimed that Jordan knew more than any other candymaker. However, it cannot be disputed that he wrote more than any other person concerning the technical and scientific aspects of candymaking. His reputation in this field, particularly the recognition accorded to his memory by the American Association of Candy Technologists in the form of the Stroud Jordan Medal, rests squarely on the responsibility he felt to record his discoveries and knowledge for the benefit of the industry.

It is a little humbling to go through this book, looking for instances where the industry has taken great strides forward in the thirty years since this book was written. These instances are mighty few. It remains the final word on the status of technology in this industry.

Easy new way to specify the right cellophane

now show you
"yield per pound"

Now . . . a new code system will make it easier than ever before for you to specify the exact Du Pont cellophane you need to meet your particular requirements.

Here's how it works: In place of the gauge designation of "300" . . . "450" . . . and "600", you can now specify the cellophane type by its square-inch yield per pound. For example, a film such as 300 MSD-60 which now has a yield of 22,000 square inches per pound will be designated 220 MSD-60 (thus using the first three digits of the yield as the gauge designator instead of the less meaningful "300").

Use this list to find new code designations for over 300 types of cellophane.

†New High Yield

herright Du Pont cellophane:

This new code system replaces one that has outlived its usefulness. Recent announcements by Du Pont of new higher-yield cellophanes which bring important cost savings to packagers made the change imperative. The chart below shows the new and former codes for many of the most widely used Du Pont cellophanes. You can see at a glance how the new code system will give you more useful information faster.

FOR YOUR COPY of a new Price List which shows the new codes for most types of Du Pont cellophane, contact your Du Pont representative or write Du Pont Co., Film Department, Wilmington 98, Delaware.

CONFECTIONERY ANALYSIS and COMPOSITION

By

Stroud Jordan, M.S., Ph.D.

Katheryn E. Langwill, M.S., Ph.D.

This volume, first published in 1946, is still the only published reference work on the subject of confectionery analysis. The pioneering work done by Dr. Jordan remains the standard in the field, making a second printing of his book necessary. This printing is in all respects identical to the first printing.

In assembling this volume reference is made to applicable methods. Where satisfactory methods of analysis are of general knowledge they are incorporated by reference. All specially developed methods and procedures are incorporated in detail.

THE MAGIC TOUCH OF LACTOSE controls sweetness levels...and boosts candy flavors and nutrition!

Lactose, the sustained energy sugar of milk, is fast becoming an indispensable ingredient to the confectioner. It captures and holds rich, delicate flavors often lost in production, controls excessive sweetness and provides smoother, more uniform texture through controlled graining. Lactose also keeps confections kitchen-fresh longer. Only Western produces Edible Lactose in the full range of granulations required by the confectionery field. Strict chemical and bacteriological specifications, rigid quality control and years of processing experience assure highest quality. For complete nutritional and functional details, get in touch with Western, world's largest producer of Lactose—pure milk sugar.
